Donate to SNAAP
SNAAP Data in the News

The Strategic National Arts Alumni Project (SNAAP) provides data and information about arts alumni and the arts education provided through arts alumni, as well as the impact of the arts on the经济发展. SNAAP is committed to building a broad community of researchers and stakeholders in SNAAP research. Researchers representing the major art school administrators, artists, and arts colleges, schools, and departments are encouraged to join. SNAAP is committed to continuing the conversation on the value of arts and design education.

Fostering Artistic Exploration in Formal and Informal Settings

The SNAAP Board of Directors has transitioned from an advisory board, operating since 2008, to a new fiduciary board, which will provide researchers with small stipends to work with SNAAP data. Contact Angie Miller at anglmill@indiana.edu.

Stay tuned for information about a new SNAAP Fellows Program that will provide researchers with small stipends to work with SNAAP data.

SNAAP Research Committees

SNAAP wants to build a broad community of researchers and stakeholders in SNAAP research. Researchers representing the major art school administrators, artists, and arts colleges, schools, and departments are encouraged to join.

SNAAP Data in the News

SNAAP Data in Work

SNAAP is always grateful to know that its data is being used in a way that informs decisions. On campus, the SNAAP data can help reveal trends and patterns in the arts education provided through arts alumni.

SNAAP Board of Directors has transitioned from an advisory board, operating since 2008, to a new fiduciary board, which will provide researchers with small stipends to work with SNAAP data. Contact Angie Miller at anglmill@indiana.edu.

Stay tuned for information about a new SNAAP Fellows Program that will provide researchers with small stipends to work with SNAAP data.

SNAAP Research Committees

SNAAP wants to build a broad community of researchers and stakeholders in SNAAP research. Researchers representing the major art school administrators, artists, and arts colleges, schools, and departments are encouraged to join. SNAAP is committed to continuing the conversation on the value of arts and design education.

Fostering Artistic Exploration in Formal and Informal Settings

The SNAAP Board of Directors has transitioned from an advisory board, operating since 2008, to a new fiduciary board, which will provide researchers with small stipends to work with SNAAP data. Contact Angie Miller at anglmill@indiana.edu.

Stay tuned for information about a new SNAAP Fellows Program that will provide researchers with small stipends to work with SNAAP data.

SNAAP Research Committees

SNAAP wants to build a broad community of researchers and stakeholders in SNAAP research. Researchers representing the major art school administrators, artists, and arts colleges, schools, and departments are encouraged to join. SNAAP is committed to continuing the conversation on the value of arts and design education.

The SNAAP Board of Directors has transitioned from an advisory board, operating since 2008, to a new fiduciary board, which will provide researchers with small stipends to work with SNAAP data. Contact Angie Miller at anglmill@indiana.edu.

Stay tuned for information about a new SNAAP Fellows Program that will provide researchers with small stipends to work with SNAAP data.

SNAAP Research Committees

SNAAP wants to build a broad community of researchers and stakeholders in SNAAP research. Researchers representing the major art school administrators, artists, and arts colleges, schools, and departments are encouraged to join. SNAAP is committed to continuing the conversation on the value of arts and design education.